GOVERNANCE

The Premier is directly responsible for the 2030 Québec Youth Policy, which is being implemented through five-year action strategies, some of which are devoted to Québec’s Aboriginal peoples.

The Secrétariat à la jeunesse plays two key roles in the governance of the QYP, i.e. it advises the government on youth-related matters and performs a leadership and coordination role with respect to the implementation of youth action strategies.

To highlight the current and future impact of public policies on youth, the QYP is renewing use of the youth impact clause in briefs submitted to Cabinet and is also calling for the elaboration of government youth indicators.

Moreover, an interdepartmental committee comprising representatives of the public administration is participating in follow-up to the implementation of the QYP. What is more, the Secrétariat is organizing at regular intervals meetings between the partners and organizations that it subsidizes in order to maintain synergy between them and take stock of the policy’s implementation.

THE GOVERNMENT’S YOUTH ACTION STRATEGY

The policy’s key action strategy, the Québec government’s Youth Action Strategy, contains targeted initiatives found in the programs, measures and services of government departments and bodies, in particular those that the Secrétariat à la jeunesse funds.

Government departments, public bodies or non-governmental organizations whose missions qualify them to offer them directly to young people will implement the programs, measures and services.

The Youth Action Strategy can grant the requisite funds to adapt existing service offers to the specific needs of young people or to diversify such offers in various fields of action in keeping with the objectives stipulated in the policy.

The evaluation of the Youth Action Strategy and its key programs, measures and services will hinge on the best practices in the realm of evaluation, in particular those promoted by the Secretariat of the Conseil du trésor.

THE THREE PRINCIPLES OF THE POLICY

1. Recognition of the pluralistic nature of the Québec nation
2. Gender equality
3. The government’s determination to act in a coherent, integrated, innovative manner

THE POLICY’S GENERAL OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGIC DIRECTIONS

The QYP’s general objective is to guide young people in their path to autonomy against a backdrop of demographic changes so that they contribute fully to building Québec now and in the future.

To attain this objective, it is emphasizing two key directions:

a. The desire to offer young people stimulating, healthy, safe, open living and other environments.

YOUTH MARKS A TRANSITIONAL PERIOD TOWARD AUTONOMY

The 2030 Québec Youth Policy (QYP) defines youth as the passage from childhood to adulthood and to personal and social autonomy and autonomy as citizens by means of numerous transitions between the ages of 15 and 29.

THE QYP IS A GOVERNMENTAL FRAME OF REFERENCE

The policy is a guide for the government and its partners over the next 15 years that provides the government with a frame of reference that will orient the elaboration and implementation of public policies and programs.

a. The intention to support the learning, initiatives and life projects of young people.

<td>The QYP seeks to heighten awareness among young people of the importance of good physical and psychological health and give them the means to achieve self-fulfilment in a respectful environment that promotes the acquisition and maintenance of healthy lifestyles.</td>
<td>One of the premises of the QYP is that educational success contributes strongly to the autonomy of young people and their integration into society. It therefore seeks to focus on the factors that can impede such integration and offer young people conditions that foster their full potential.</td>
<td>The QYP seeks to enable young people to actively participate in debate that sustains society in the cultural, political and social spheres. It also seeks to promote citizen involvement. Furthermore, the policy broaches important questions such as social cohesion, intergenerational dialogue, receptiveness to cultural diversity and the adoption of environmentally responsible behaviour.</td>
<td>Entry into the labour force is a turning point in the lives of all young people, in particular those who have difficulty entering it. The QYP intends to guide them in this important step that leads to autonomy and social inclusion. In particular, it seeks to encourage the implementation of work-family and work-study balance measures and foster the mobility of young people.</td>
<td>The policy seeks to promote the development of an entrepreneurial spirit among young people and create conditions conducive to the establishment or transfer of businesses, especially among young farmers. It also hopes to facilitate access by young people to decision-making positions in all spheres of society.</td>
